

Town okays container ban boundary zone expansion

More businesses will be within pedestrian areas where restrictions lifted

By Sheila R. Cherry
Associate Editor

BERLIN—The Town Council voted to approve an expansion of the container ban boundary zone to include a broader swath of town businesses beyond those directly on Main Street, at the request of Economic Development Director Michael Day on Jan. 27.

During special town events, physical barriers are placed at the north end of Main Street at Stevenson Lane, and south end of Main Street at Jefferson Street, along with entrances to Main Street from Broad, Commerce and Pitts streets. With the addition of three new businesses, whose owners Day said had expressed interest in participating in the events, opening outside the current boundary zone, the council was asked to consider expanding the boundary lines.

Within the boundary zone the town's prohibition against open containers of alcohol or public consumption of alcohol is suspended through the duration of the special event (Town Code Sec. 20-19. Possession and consumption in certain places prohibited).

Under the expanded boundary zone the council approved, businesses including Baked Dessert Café & Gallery, Blacksmith, Burley Tavern Inn, Uptown Antiques and the Visitor Center, will be within the pedestrian area where the open container ban will be lifted.

The council then approved Day's request for the container ban ordinance to be suspended for five upcoming events this year, to allow permitted alcohol sales during the Jazz & Blues Bash on May 3, May Day Play Day on May 10, Fiddler's Convention on Sept. 19-20, OctoberFest on Oct. 18, a yet-unnamed and unscheduled event that will replace the International Festival, and the New Year's Eve Celebration on Dec. 31.

A schedule to allow the Berlin Chamber of Commerce to host an outdoor beer garden during those events, with the exception of New Year's Eve, was presented by Chamber President Tom Sholtis, of Ocean 98.1 FM. The proposed schedule was approved by the council.

According to the Code: "The drinking of alcoholic beverages in non-glass containers shall be permitted on public streets, avenues, alleys or sidewalks, if the drinking of such alcoholic beverages is done as part of a special event, in a designated area, and during a designated time as set forth in a permit granted to the organizers of the special event or to their designees by the Mayor and Council, which may set forth such other conditions of the permit as it deems appropriate under the circumstances."

Human Resources Director Jeffrey Fleetwood made a presentation to Mayor Gee Williams and the town council on a proposed new vacation time buyback program (Sec. 6.12 of the Employee Handbook, entitled "Vacation Buy Back") that would allow town employees to sell a certain amount of their accrued vacation hours back to the town at 80 percent of its cash value. Under the proposal, town employees who have taken 40 hours of vacation time prior to an April 30 deadline in a given year would be allowed to request the opportunity to sell back their remaining vacation hours to the town up to 60 hours and meet other criteria.

Fleetwood stressed that the buyback program would be a voluntary election by the employee and that it was to be understood by employees that the payout

Operating, capital project proposals for FY 2015

Numbers could shift as budget bills work their way through legislature

By Sheila R. Cherry
Associate Editor

MARYLAND—As the General Assembly begins its 2014 session, legislators will deliberate proposed allocations for state aid to Worcester County totaling more than $35.8 million, a 2.1 percent increase from the roughly $35.1 million amount that was appropriated to the county for fiscal year 2014.

The amount proposed for fiscal 2015 represents $695 per county resident in state aid—slightly more than half the statewide average of $1,207 per capita.

In the overall $39 billion fiscal 2015 budget package, the Gov. Martin O'Malley administration has proposed $7,703,000 in spending for capital projects for Worcester County and $35,850,000 for operational spending for county and municipal governing, community colleges, public schools, libraries, local health grants, and retirement funding for state employees.

If the state aid was approved as proposed, it would allocate $27,924,000 in direct assistance, plus $7,926,000 for retirement, a preliminary review of the proposed budget showed.

Matthew D. Klein, capital budget manager in the Department of Legislative Services, confirmed on Jan. 27 many of the allocations found for Worcester County, but advised that those numbers could shift as the budget bills work their ways through the legislative process.

First, in the operating budget, the largest portion of the proposed allowance for direct state aid would be $19,544,000 for the 6,240 K-12 students in Worcester County public schools—a .5 percent increase from the fiscal 2014 working appropriation amount.

A $5,664,000 allowance was proposed for county and municipal government—an 8.7 percent increase from the fiscal 2014 working appropriation amount.

Local community colleges would re-

BUY A NEW $2,580 FURNACE FOR $628

(READ THE AMAZING STORY BELOW)

PLUS YOU KEEP ANY ADDITIONAL FACTORY REBATES

Dear Homeowners,

Yes, it's absolutely true, you can replace your old (and probably very inefficient) furnace and central cooling system for at least $1,952 less than you would have to at any other time!

HERE'S THE SITUATION

The extremely warm fall created an over abundance of manufacturers inventory, along with our staff of skilled workers that simply won't have enough work if we don't create it for them.

MY PROBLEM IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY

Let me explain. Every year, big manufacturers of air conditioning systems have to guess how many to build to meet the demand. Of course, they are never actually right. They always have some inventory they must hold over until next summer season. I went to one of these companies and contracted for the purchase of several central heating and cooling systems and heat pumps and central air conditioners - in the most popular sizes used in this area. And, because of the quantity and time of year, I was able to buy them at drastically reduced, below wholesale, out-of-season prices. These are NOT seconds or "blems". They are factory PREMIUM units and have a FULL FACTORY WARRANTY.

HOW TO GET A FURNACE FOR VERY LITTLE MONEY

I was able to buy the furnaces and cooling systems for less than you would be able to pay for the cooling system alone! So, if you buy one of these systems (if one of the several sizes I have will fit your home, of course), I am giving you a gas or electric furnace FREE. All I ask is for $628 in labor it costs to have your new furnace installed.

HERE'S HOW

Just call us anytime at 410-641-1434.

I will come out and measure your home to determine the availability of the proper size. I will show you the real world price of the heating and cooling system that fits your home so you know EXACTLY how much you're saving. My quote will include all labor and installation materials. Nothing is left out.

NO OBLIGATION

Even after I completely explain the installation, there is absolutely NO OBLIGATION. If you decide you don't want to take advantage of the spectacular savings, that's OK. I will give you a free NO OBLIGATION home and duct leakage test valued at $289 because you were kind enough to read this letter. I want you to think of ARCTIC HEATING AND AIR CONDITIONING even if you don't buy a thing.

YOU CAN BUY WITH NO CASH

You don't even have to pay me right away. I have set up a terrific financing program offering LOW MONTHLY PAYMENTS for your convenience. I even decided not to mark up the interest rate like most companies do. Consider this: if you decide to make monthly payments instead of paying cash, the entire amount of your payments could be more than offset by the savings on your utility bills. It's like having your cake and eating it too.

IRONCLAD GUARANTEE

I'm so confident that you will save at least 25 percent on your heating and cooling bills the first year - I'm really projecting more like 30 to 50 percent - that I will pay you DOUBLE THE DIFFERENCE if you don't. If these premium systems were not among the best on the market, I couldn't afford to make such a promise.

WHY THIS OFFER CAN'T LAST

You must act fast because of limited supply. When all the FREE furnace units are given away in a particular size, that's it. There are no more at this price.

Give us a call now at

410-641-1434

to schedule an appointment for your NO-OBLIGATION survey.

THANK YOU FOR READING THIS RATHER LONG LETTER - I HOPE YOU WILL PROFIT GREATLY BECAUSE OF IT.

Warmly,

Russell A. Queen
President

P.S. Six months from now, this will probably be the most appreciated opportunity ever extended to homeowners in our area. Every one of the new owners will have an almost unfair advantage over the utility companies

P.S.S. Don't forget, the home and duct leakage test is free, and there is NO OBLIGATION for this service valued at $289

County to receive Program Open Space funds

ceive $2,084 (excludes state retirement payments), if approved, for expenses, grants and special programs.

Under the budget proposal, $442,000 would be allowed for local health initiatives—a 12.3 percent increase from the fiscal 2014 working appropriation amount.

Libraries would receive the formulaic amount of $144,000 under the proposal for operating and capital expenses, as well as $266,000 for pension and retirement benefits for eligible library employees. According to a budget explanation the amount would represent a $19,000 increase from the fiscal 2014 working appropriation amount.

The budget proposal would allow for $7,926,000 in retirement payments for state employees, Klein said.

Although listed under the operating budget, there were proposals under the consolidated transportation plan for capital expenditures for the lower Eastern Shore. Those expenditures would include $6.9 million to rehabilitate the bridges on U.S. Route 13 that span over the Pocomoke River in Somerset and Worcester counties and $5.9 million for engineering and acquisition costs for a right of way on U.S. 113 in Worcester County, according to a synopsis of the fiscal 2015 operating budget.

Also, according to Klein, Worcester County will receive a $311,794 distribution from Program Open Space that can be used for land acquisition or infrastructure in local parks.

Second, the capital budget for 2015 budget initially proposed $4,245,000 in allocations for Worcester County in the form of loans from the state Department of the Environment's Maryland Water Quality Revolving Loan Fund, in the form of $3,226,000 for miscellaneous improvements at the Fruitland Wastewater Treatment Plant and $1,019,000 to rehabilitate the Clarke Avenue Pump Station in Pocomoke City.

According to the proposal, $1 million from the Ocean City Beach Replenishment Fund would be allocated for combatting beach erosion, and $99,000 from the Waterway Improvement Project would be allocated to the Gum Point Boat Ramp off Route 589 in West Ocean City.

Department of Natural Resources Critical Maintenance Projects would provide funding to Assateague State Park for dune maintenance ($50,000) and Phase II of the shower buildings renovation project ($1,417,000). Several projects at the Pocomoke River State Park would also receive funding from the department, including $107,000 for renovating the Algonquin and Manokin Pavilions, $25,000 for improvements to the marina services loading dock area, an additional $600,000 for a separate Phase II project for the shower buildings renovation project, $50,000 to replace the dumping station at Milburn Landing, and $45,000 to upgrade the electrical system in the shop at Shad Landing.

Klein added that although county officials did not request funding through the regular school construction program, the county will receive $65,000 through the aging schools program which automatically by statute under Sec. 5-206 of the state's Education Article.

There were no proposed allocations for community parks and playgrounds, he said.

Buyback program introduced

the employee would receive, in the first pay period (July) of the new fiscal year, would total only 80 percent of the value of the hours sold.

The concept of the proposal, Fleetwood said, was to reduce the financial liability to the town of the outstanding vacation hours employees have accrued, which can total up to 240 hours per employee.

Steve Taylor and Cindy Ilardi of Worcester Youth and Family Counseling Services made a presentation to the council to introduce Taylor as the organization's incoming executive director and to provide the quarterly report. (See related article.)

OP committee likely to ask board to wait on proposals

Recommends panel hold line on member assessments, spending

By Sheila R. Cherry
Associate Editor

OCEAN PINES—The Budget and Finance Committee is expected to meet on Jan. 30 to hash out the final version of its recommendation letter to the Ocean Pines Association Board of Directors on the proposed 2014-2015 fiscal year budget, Committee Chairman Dennis Hudson said on Jan. 28.

Although no draft of the letter was released, Hudson said it would likely advise the board to hold the line on proposals to increase member assessments and to place a 10- to 15-year cap on new spending. He also said the committee would propose the board allocate money in the budget to fund a population study to establish a demographic baseline of the Ocean Pines community. The study would be conducted by the Business Economic and Community Outreach Network, of the Franklin P. Perdue School of Business at Salisbury University program, he said.

During a Dec. 4 work session, the directors heard a presentation from the Comprehensive Planning Advisory Committee, featuring Dr. Memo Diriker, founding director of the BEACON program, which was described as using,

“targeted outreach programs, applied research, trend and scenario analyses, demand forecasting, strategic planning, feasibility studies, and modeling for resource allocation, process improvement, and economic impact studies.”

The committee is also expected to vote to approve Patricia Supik as chairman as Hudson steps down from the post.

With the anticipated advisory letter, the committee seemed to be trying to steer the board towards adopting a practice of conducting feasibility and necessity reviews prior to allocating funds for new capital spending. For example, Hudson noted a $500,000 proposal to build a new police station, which he acknowledged was needed. But he said the proposal was not accompanied by plans to conduct an architectural study prior to the commencing project.

Similarly, Hudson also pointed out two paving projects in the proposed capital budget, one to pave the parking lots at the Beach Club at 4901 Coastal Highway in Ocean City and the South Pond. Both projects were needed, he said, but neither was “something that has to happen right away.”

According to Hudson there were a lot of other things the board needed to address including paying for the new Yacht Club, which is scheduled to open in May.

A public hearing on the proposed FY 2015 budget is scheduled for Feb. 15 9 a.m. in the Community Center at 235 Ocean Parkway.

Taylor executive director of youth, family services

Becomes only second man to lead agency in organization's history

By Sheila R. Cherry
Associate Editor

BERLIN—When Steven Taylor decided to step back a bit from his daily management duties as co-owner of Ayers Creek Adventures to succeed Teresa Fields as executive director of Worcester Youth and Family Services on Jan. 6 he became the second man to hold that post in the organization's history.

In doing so, Taylor is returning to his professional roots, he said in a Jan. 27 interview, pointing out that he previously served as the first executive director of the Maryland Coastal Bays Association. He said he founded a similar organization designed to improve the quality of natural resources in New Jersey before moving back to his native Eastern Shore and converting his family's farm into an outdoors recreation site in 2010.

Taylor and his wife have two adult sons, a 22-year old who works in the construction industry in Colorado and a 23-year old who works in the information technology field in Baltimore. He said he was looking forward to helping residents of the local community have happy fulfilling lives. To achieve that they sometimes needed someone to talk and plan their personal goals with, he said.

Taylor said he was anticipating the organization's leadership will try to expand offered services into the mental health field this year. He said the intention is to apply by March for permission to bring in a licensed psychiatrist, with the authority to prescribe treatment.

He also stated that he would like to increase WYFCS's community outreach and marketing efforts.

One misconception that Taylor said he would like to dispel was that WYFCS only serves children. "We currently treat all ages," including providing adult counseling services for marital struggles, fi-

According to its annual report, in 2013 WYFCS service in the form of ongoing programs included: Lower Shore Court Appointed Special Advocates (66 children), Family Connections (485 clients), Enhanced Families Now (11 families), Strengthening Adolescent Girls with Education and Support (33 girls), Berlin Youth Project (75 local youth), and Counseling Services (462 clients).

Fundraising events, such as the annual Pirate Party, Ocean City Marathon and pancake breakfast, cover half WYFCS's total annual budget, which he estimated would be $1.2 million for 2014. The organization also regularly applies for grant funding from the state, he said. Since those grants are competitive, they cannot be counted as a reliably stable funding stream. WYFCS also bills in-

Important to research eligibilities before opening new IRA

As April 15 approaches, tax payers should look into best contributions

By Chip Gordy
Contributing Writer

As April 15 approaches, many taxpayers should make sure that they contribute to their IRAs so as to receive the related tax benefit.

If you do this, it's important to make sure that you satisfy the contribution eligibility requirements in order to avoid penalties. Following are some important reminders to help you to meet these requirements.

First, you must have eligible compensation in order to be qualified to contribute to an IRA. For IRA purposes, eligible compensation includes wages, salaries, tips, commissions received as a percentage of sales, and taxable alimony. If you are a sole proprietor or a partner in a partnership, your compensation is based on your net earnings from your business, reduced by contributions to any employer-sponsored plan that you adopt and any deduction allowed for 50 percent of your self-employment taxes.

insurance companies for certain counseling services, he said.

The towns of Berlin, Ocean City and Pocomoke, and the Worcester County Commissioners are constant and dependable financial supporters, he indicated.

Taylor said he was looking forward to working with the staff of WYFCS, who he called "great listeners." He has a very calm demeanor himself and described his new co-workers as receptive, helpful and very professional.

Amounts you receive as interest, annuity, dividends, pension, earnings and profits from property investments, and any amount you exclude from your income are not considered eligible compensation for IRA purposes.

The maximum dollar amount that may be contributed to an IRA for 2013 is $5,500 ($5,500 for 2014). If you're at least age 50 by the end of the year of which the contribution applies, you may contribute an additional $1,000 (referred to as a catch-up contribution). If your eligible compensation is less than the maximum, then you are eligible to contribute only up to the amount you earn for the year.

You may contribute to your Traditional IRA to age 70 1/2, but if you make a contribution in the year you reach age 70 1/2 or later, the amount will be considered an excess contribution. If this happens, the amount must be taken out of your IRA by Oct. 15 of the following year in order to avoid penalties (Roth IRA contributions are different as there's no age limit for contributions).

The contribution deadline tax-filing extensions don't apply to your IRA and or Roth IRA contributions. This means that your contributions must be deposited by your tax filing due date, which is usually April 15. Similar to your tax return, a postmark date is considered timely. Therefore, if you send your contribution in the mail by April 15, you will have met the deadline, even if your financial institution receives the contribution after April 15.

Check to make sure you meet the eligibility requirements and that you received eligible compensation for the year before you make your IRA contribution. To be sure that your contribution was deposited for the right tax year, check your account statement for the month the amount is deposited. Financial institutions are more likely to correct errors if they're detected early. And most importantly, check with your tax and financial professional for assistance with determining whether contributing to your IRA is a good financial decision for you.

Ocean Pines Garden Club tour scheduled for June 12

OCEAN PINES—The Ocean Pines Garden Club will present its annual garden tour this year on June 12.

To ensure another great event, the garden club is asking Ocean Pines homeowners to consider placing their garden on the tour. Large or small, cultivated or "natural," formal or informal—all gardens are given consideration.

Having a variety of gardens to show is what makes the tour fun and surprising. In addition, having your garden on the tour is an experience and gives others a chance to gain ideas for what they might do in their own yards.

Homeowners will be given the opportunity to have an artist painting "plein air" in their garden during the tour and will also be invited, as guests of the garden club, to the luncheon immediately following the tour.

ARTHREX ECLIPSE™ SHOULDER PROSTHESIS CLINICAL TRIAL

Eclipse Components in Shoulder

Univers II Components in Shoulder

Dr. Thomas Brandon (Salisbury, MD) is currently enrolling patients in the Arthrex Eclipse™ Shoulder Prosthesis Clinical Trial at Peninsula Orthopaedic Associates.

The purpose of this clinical trial is to evaluate Arthrex's Eclipse™ shoulder prosthesis compared to the currently approved Univers™ II prosthesis. The investigational Eclipse™ device system was designed to preserve more healthy bone in the humerus. Saving more healthy bone and tissue may reduce pain, make the new joint function more naturally and maintain options in the event that future surgical interventions are needed.

Participants in the trial are randomized to receive either the Eclipse™ device or the standard treatment (Univers™ II) in a 2:1 ratio. The study will follow participants for two years after surgery to assess functional outcomes, radiographic success, need for surgical revisions and adverse events.

Basic Inclusion Criteria:

- Candidate for total shoulder replacement
- 21 and older with significant pain and functional impairments of the shoulder
- Minimum of six months prior treatment of the affected shoulder

Farlow to run for Worcester County State's Attorney post

Private practice lawyer, he also served eight years as assistant AG

By Nancy Powell
Staff Writer/Ocean City Today
WORCESTER COUNTY—Attorney Mike Farlow wants to return to the Worcester County State's Attorney's Office.

Farlow, a Democrat, was deputy state's attorney for eight years under former State's Attorney Joel Todd and is now seeking election to replace State's Attorney Beau Oglesby, a Republican.

"I loved the position," Farlow said last Friday. "I loved helping victims, I loved being able to have so many cases I was responsible for and I loved working with police officers who are outstanding in this county."

If elected, Farlow will have a few changes for the State's Attorney's Office.

"I was to see a more pro-active approach out of the office," he said. "I think our chief prosecutor should be doing more to prevent crime."

The prevalence of drug addiction, especially to heroin, is a prime concern.

"In our country and in this county, we have more and more kids addicted to opiates," Farlow said. "Often, they start with prescription pills they find at home, so using the bully pulpit of the State's Attorney's Office to form partnerships with school, doctors, pharmacies and PTAs, we can get the word out to parents to lock prescription pills up."

"We can work to make communities safer. There has been many cases all over the country where prosecutors get actively involved in communities they serve," he said. "Joel [Todd] found out about drug deals in a part of Berlin not far from his house and he sat out on a bench for hours in the park. He did it randomly."

Todd's bench-sitting was an extreme example, Farlow said, of a prosecutor working with people in at-risk communities to make it possible for good, honest, law-abiding people who live there to have their streets back.

Another difference with Oglesby, he said, is a difference of style.

"I think he is the sort of person who doesn't see the prosecutor's office involved much before the investigation begins," Farlow said. I think the prosecutor's role goes much deeper than that. We have an obligation to people to inform them about what's happening, to be proactive in crime prevention and to be a resource to people in the community who want to make their community better."

After graduating from Salisbury University with degrees in political science, history and philosophy, Farlow graduated from Widener University in Wilmington, Del. Later, he taught political scene for about nine years at Salisbury University. He also taught education law, a master's level course for teachers.

Farlow is an attorney in private practice in Ocean Pines, working in criminal law, family law and estate law. He handles cases in District Court and Circuit Court.

Because many of his clients are young offenders, one of his business cards caters to them. Part of it reads, "Don't say a ^&!?!*#@! Word!" He has an explanation for people who might be surprised by it.

"As a private attorney, I deal with people who want straight discussions about what their rights are and if you say something in a funny and crude way, people pay attention," Farlow said. "It was in a language often used by young people who are a good portion of my clients."

He also has a standard business card for other clients.

Farlow, who grew up in Pittsville, lives in Snow Hill with Michelle, his bride of less than one year.

For more information about Farlow, visit farlowforjustice.com.

Berlin Lions prepare for ‘Whole Hog Sausage Sale’

Monies raised to help club make structural changes to its log cabin

By Sheila R. Cherry
Associate Editor

BERLIN—The Berlin Lions Club is gearing up for its annual “Whole Hog Sausage Sale” on Feb. 1, which will begin at 8 a.m. and will last until everything is sold (usually by noon), according to the “King Lion,” Club President Ray McCabe.

He said as many as 250 hogs will be processed and sold as tenderloin, ribs, scrapple and pigs feet during the sale. But by far the most popular item is the pork sausage, which comes as either “mild” or “hot” and costs $3.75 per lb.

He suggested that customers purchasing 10 lbs. or more. Call in to place orders prior to the sale at 410-641-1064. Pre-ordered packages will be assigned an order number and pick-up time, so they can be distributed at intervals to avoid back-ups. For customers who choose not to pre-order he advised they come as early as possible to missing out on the sale once the items sell out.

Normally the funds raised during the sale pays for the many philanthropic activities the Lions Club sponsors, but this year, McCabe said the fundraiser will help the club make needed structural improvements to the 60-year-old log cabin building.

Among the services the Lions Club provides to the community, according to McCabe is assistance with vision and hearing care, and activities for local youth. The club donates regularly to the Lions Vision Research Foundation, Leader Dogs for the Blind, and local youth programs.

Anyone can apply for the club’s vision care assistance program, which is reviewed and approved by a committee of members. Individuals approved for assistance can receive help with scheduling eye care appointments at Berlin Optical, and financial help with doctor visits and glasses, he said.

Club members also help individuals needing assistance with hearing-related health issues by setting appointments and providing assistance with exams.

At Christmas time, the Lions receive a list of the names of 12 or more local families in need from the school system, which club members then help through club programs, according to McCabe. Through the Club’s “Christmas Baskets” program, members collect groceries, toys and coats for the families. He said club members make sure that all of the children in those families get a present for Christmas.

The club has also continued a program that was started by former Berlin Mayor and Lions Club member Thomas A. Cardinale—the Mayor’s Bike Program. The club gave nine bicycles to children at Christmas in 2013 in honor of Cardinale, who died in 2008.

For additional information, or to make donations, contact the Berlin Lions Club, at 410-641-1064, or at 9039 Worcester Highway, Berlin, Md., 21811.

Clerk of Court Steve Hales plans to retire after 28 years

Calls choice ‘hardest decision I ever made in my life...I love this job’

By Nancy Powell

Staff Writer/Ocean City Today

WORCESTER COUNTY—After 28 years of being an elected public official serving the citizens of Worcester County, Clerk of Court Steve Hales is retiring instead of running for re-election this year.

“It’s the hardest decision I ever made in my life,” Hales said last Friday. “I fell in love with the office and the people we serve. I love this job.”

After his successor takes office, Hales plans to spend time traveling with his wife, Ann, on his motorcycle and with his grandchildren. He would like to find part-time work to keep active and he doesn’t rule out future political service.

“I might consider alternate political office later,” Hales said.

A state office could be among the possibilities, he said.

Hales will miss the public he has served for so long and appreciates the opportunities he had to provide assistance.

“I love this office with all my heart and soul,” he said. “I’m grateful to have been part of a system that provides service to citizens.”

The court clerk and the office’s staff handle a myriad of responsibilities.

“Any origins of court cases in Worcester County are initiated at the clerk’s office,” Hales said. “And we are keepers of the record. That’s one of our primary functions.”

The clerk of court is part of the state’s judiciary, but elected locally. Each of the state’s 23 counties and the City of Baltimore have clerks of court.

Since he took office as clerk of court, the biggest change has been in automation and Hales was not only a strong proponent, but a leader.

“We were the first county in the state to automate land records,” Hales said. “Public records should be made available through any automatic process to accommodate the public’s need,” he said.

The clerk’s office handles business records, recording approximately 3,000 licenses, including new licenses and renewals, each year.

The office also issues marriage licenses and presides over civil ceremonies.

In addition to his public service at the courthouse in Snow Hill, Hales, a West Ocean City resident, served the public as a firefighter. After 35 years, he is a Gold Badge member of the Ocean City Volunteer Fire Company and was president three times, for a total of six years.

Hales also served at the state level and was chairman of the Board of Trustees for the Maryland State Firemen’s Association for nine years. Traveling statewide, he administered the death and disability program for volunteer firefighters.

Hales served 12 years as register of wills and has been clerk of Circuit Court for 16 years. He was president of the Maryland Register of Wills Association and the Maryland Circuit Court Clerks Association.

He also worked on long-term planning and policy decisions while on the Maryland Judicial Council for Judge Robert Bell, chief judge of the state’s highest court, the Court of Appeals, in 2004 and 2005.

Assembly to consider quality county funding

County residents who love Worcester County’s environmental beauty such in its waterways, green spaces and parks, should be encouraged by state budget allocations coming out of the General Assembly.

Worcester should receive over $300,000 from Program Open Space that will be used for land acquisition or infrastructure of existing local parks.

Other expenditures include funding for Assateague State Park dune maintenance and shower building renovations.

Pocomoke River State Park is also on the list to receive funds to renovate its Algonquin and Manokin Pavilions as well as for improvements to marina services.

When this is combined with the $19.5 million for Worcester County’s 6,240 public school students, it makes for an impressive and of course helpful way to give this County its due.

Sometimes state citizens and even their state representatives focus so much of the 90-day General Assembly session on issues having a greater impact on the densely populated Baltimore metro area and Washington D.C.’s suburban Maryland communities.

Yet when the weather becomes warmer and we approach May, a sizeable chunk of those populations come over the Bay Bridge and make a beeline for Ocean City, Assateague, Berlin and other areas of the County.

So, these bill proposals are extremely important. Education and natural resource expenditures reflect the year-round quality of life of any area. In this case, it’s Worcester County. We are glad to see these numbers.

Leon? Another way to get us hyped

Naming winter storms only in its second go around

Leon? Really, the storm’s name was Leon?

Leon?

Are you kidding me?

Leon could be anyone’s uncle; the never married accountant with the sebaceous cyst that always needs draining. I know Leon is Greek for lion. But the regal cat doesn’t apply to the Leons I know.

Why not just go for Sheldon, Seymour, Fred or Beatrice?

So let’s first get to reasoning. The Weather Channel has written on its webpages that the best way to communicate severe weather information, be it a snowstorm or a hurricane is to give the disturbance a name.

Because hashtags have become an important part of social media, giving a winter or summer storm a name and hashtag is a great way to send out storm information. Last year, Winter Storm Nemo had over a billion Twitter impressions.

This year’s winter storm names come from the Bozeman High School Latin class in Bozeman, Mont. This is the second winter the Weather channel has named winter storms.

So last week Janus brought Ocean City, Berlin and surrounding towns to an icy halt. Snow combined with a “polar vortex” will do that. Growing up, the terms “wind chill” and “heat index” weren’t impacting my day. Now every time any type of storm is coming our way, schools get ready to close, there’s a run on food and on the Weather Channel there’s always some brave reporter who is standing in front of the weather, reporting while the rest of us are inside staying warm. But we stay glued to the TV watching him out there.

Let’s not forget that we still have February in front of us. But fear not, because here are the remaining names for this year: Maximus, Nika, Orion, Pax, Quintus, Rex, Seneca, Titan, Ulysses, Vulcan, Wiley, Xenia, Yona and Zephyr.

Leon is the Greek word for lion. Hopefully as you’re reading this, Leon will have left our area like a lamb.

Ready for the 2014 hurricane names?

How about: Arthur, Bertha, Cristobal, Dolly, Edouard, Fay, Gonzalo, Hanna, Isaias, Josephine, Kyle, Laura, Marco, Nana, Omar, Paulette, Rene, sally Teddy Vicky and Wilfred? Wilfred?

In 2001, the name list had a bit of a controversy when it included Adolph and Israel.

Can you imagine Hurricane Adolph bearing down on the U.S. Coast? Even the B’nai B’rith Anti-Defamation League chimed against this one even though one of history’s most hated people spelled his name Adolf.

But Israel? Imagine if Israel came roaring down as a weather system by chance on an Arab nation? Though the chances are slim to none, still?

The World Meteorological Organization changed the name from Israel to Ivo. Both Ivo and Adolph were storms that never reached landfall.

Personally, I once heard a radio ad where a person could have his or her name assigned to a star. For $48.95, you could buy a star and name it.

Why not put winter storm names and hurricanes up for sale? It could be a charity fundraiser, or it could be used in some cases as an act of real expression.

I can almost hear my mother-in-law saying, “Winter Storm Shirley, what a coincidence?”

Or we could name storms after annoying pop stars. Hurricane Bieber would be an idea. Sports fans could purchase Snowstorm A-Rod. He’d want $75 million probably. So then we could purchase, Tropical Storm Steroids in his honor.

What if major companies purchased naming rights to storms just like they do college bowl games or sports arenas and stadiums?

What a coincidence. The experts are saying there’s a slight chance of snow on February 2, Super Bowl Sunday. The game is being played in New Jersey’s MetLife Stadium. Suppose, just suppose that Winter Storm MetLife would be snowing on the Super Bowl.

It would be a marketing bonanza.

What could possibly be next?

Every now and then we see something in class that brings back vivid memories associated with food; memories rushing through our minds as images just seem to come together in our imagination. Recently, as one of our students, Bob, made a fresh remoulade, I tasted it and was immediately transported to countless late nights of the Frenchiest French Fries I had the pleasure of enjoying. I can't even remember the name of the place in East Baltimore but it was always jumping and their fryers could not keep up with them.

Fried in rendered duck fat (buy online from a variety of vendors) and then topped with fresh herbes de provence and truffle salt, they are only improved by the presence of a side of remoulade. They go well paired with anything from Iced tea to beer to wine. Of course, I would go with the beer with these but that is your call.

Remoulade is a close cousin to tartar sauce and in many restaurants the name is used interchangeably. Truth be told, By adding sriracha or blackening spice to tartar sauce, the process lends itself to the myriad 'spicy remoulades' on menus nationwide. As another student, Shelby, made tartar sauce today, I am reminded just how similar the two can be. Both fantastic in their own right, with a sweeter hint to the tartar, we decided to use both as sides to our arterial dream come true.

As for specialty ingredients, it's good to know a chef, since they have access to said ingredients at much more reasonable prices than if you were to buy them online. A great example is truffle salt, one of the greatest concoctions known to man. The contributions of truffle salt to one's olfactory sense cannot be emphasized properly enough in writing. The strong mushroom smell is only doubled by the stronger garlic, earthen aroma that permeates anything on which you sprinkle it. Combined with the duck fat and the herbes de Provence mixture, you are left with an ethereal experience reminiscent of your first kiss. Well, maybe they're not that good, but they will leave an impression. And I can promise you that the plate will be empty in little to no time at all. Given my druthers, I would eat fried food every day of my life, but my doctors tell me otherwise as they have for years. I guess I won't tell them about the panko-crusted fried shrimp I just had the students make on which to sample our lovely sauces. And mayhap it may slip my mind to tell my doctor that I had a very healthy portion of the fries when they were done. This is one of the greatest challenges of sticking to a strict dietary regimen while teaching a multitude of cooking classes. But all is fair in love and war. At least I demonstrated the virtues of a powerful juicer. With all of the students trying their hands at being the next juice bar star, I had plenty of fresh vegetable and fruit juices to counteract the bad that may have come from the fried foods.

But calling anything fried in duck fat anything close to 'bad' should be a crime. It is a great cooking medium and should be a welcome addition to your pantry. And after you make these once, you can recall in your mind this experience for the rest of your life.

Cut the potatoes into thin strips and set aside in cold water. Heat the oil to 300 degrees and blanch the fries for four minutes. Alternately, you may blanch the fries in heavily salted water for a few minutes, or until they begin to tender. They will finish cooking in the hot oil; a tip from a friend years ago. Allow to cool and turn the fryer up to 350-360 degrees.

When you are ready for service, simply fry the fries until they are golden brown and crispy. Remove and drain. Immediately season with truffle salt and herbes de provence. Serve hot as the aromas will hit your guests long before the amazing flavor will Born April 27, 1929, in Hindenburg, Germany, she was the daughter of the late Robert and Elfriede Golba.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Andy Gsvind, in 1984. She leaves her loving memories to be cherished by her daughter, Barbara Bunting and her husband, Victor, of Whaleyville, and her son, Charles Gsvind and his wife, Tracey, of Berlin.

She was the adored grandmother to four grandchildren; Victor Bunting, Jr. of Berlin, Lesley Bunting Gurgo of Berlin, Robbie Gsvind of Berlin and Katie Tibbs of San Diego, Ca.

She is also survived by two brothers, Horst Golba and his wife, Cristel, of Frankfurt, Germany, and Gerhardt Golba and his wife, Elke, of Spearfish, SD. Preceding her in death was a sister, Margot Wistlich of Volkensbach.

Mrs. Gsvind was a poultry grower for Perdue, Inc. for 37 years and received several awards as an outstanding poultry producer. In Mrs. Gsvind's healthier days, she loved going to the beach, playing bingo, tending her yard and flowers, crocheting and knitting, but most of all being surrounded by her family.

During the Russian Invasion of Upper Silesia in 1945, her family fled by train with other German refugees to the west and resided in Kleinwallstadt, Germany. It was there that she briefly worked repairing parachutes for the U.S. Military and met her future husband, Andy Gsvind, a U.S. soldier.
