Took more than huge voting effort to become 'cool'

How Berlin was moved from edge of extinction

By Josh Davis
Staff Writer

BERLIN— From an outsider's perspective, Berlin can seem like a town built inside of a snow globe.

Are the shop and restaurant owners that line Main Street — who perpetually shake your hand and ask how your day was — really that friendly? Just many bathtub and high heel races, fiddler's conventions and Victorian jubilees, music festivals, art strolls and free concerts on the lawn can a town of a few thousand possibly sustain? What, exactly, makes America's coolest small town seem so — for lack of a better word — cool?

There isn't really a singular answer — or a singular architect behind modern-day Berlin — but the story that is most often repeated suggests several people working together over a period of decades brought the town back from the edge of extinction.

Berlin, a name that came, possibly by accident, from a popular inn formerly located on Burley Street, was once the peach capital of the world and home to a thriving railroad hub.

"Harrison's Nurseries were the world's largest peach nursery business in the 1920's," said Calvin B. Taylor House Museum curator Susan Taylor. "They had over 3,000 acres all over the shore with these nurseries. They raised all types of peaches and fruit trees and evergreens and shipped all over the world."

Phillips Cannery was active in the 1940's and 50's. Union Station, which once stood near the Berlin library, fed two major railroads. "Drummers," or businessmen sent in to drum up business, were ubiquitous.

When a peach blight struck the town in the 1960's, the agricultural industry dried up and land and business owners, including the Harrisons, began moving to Ocean City to invest in hotels and the booming tourism industry.

The Atlantic Hotel, the crown jewel of the town, fell into disrepair. The rail-

WORCESTER COUNTY—From patriotic concerts and fireworks to pool parties and hot dog-eating contests, Worcester County has a host of ways to celebrate Independence Day.

Here are a few events going on in the area this weekend:

Ocean Pines • Freedom 5K:

Ocean Pines kicks off its Independence Day celebration Friday, weather pending, with a Freedom 5K open to all ages. The fun run event starts at 8 a.m. in the Veterans Memorial Park on Racetrack Road. Organizers encourage runners to support the military by wearing red, white and blue while they wind their way through the course.

Registration costs $30 at the event and a portion of the proceeds will benefit Home of the Brave, an organization devoted to reducing homelessness among veterans.

• Pool Party:

Ocean Pines will host its family-friendly July 4 celebration Friday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Sports Core Pool on Cathell Road.

An entry fee of $5 gets guests an armband good for unlimited play on the moon bounce and water slides. There will be a DJ, face painting, carnival-style games and refreshments. Adults without memberships will be required to pay $7 and children aged 5-17, $5. Add $1 for non-residents.

• Fireworks:

After a day of fun at the pool or beach, take part in a free fireworks show Friday night in Showell Park, weather permitting, across from the Showell Elementary School on Route

589. Free parking will be available at Showell Elementary, Most Blessed Sacrament Catholic School, St. John Neumann Catholic Church, Community Church at Ocean Pines and The Pavilions. Visitors are encouraged to watch the display from these locations.

Snow Hill

• Fireworks and Celebration:

The Snow Hill Area Chamber of Commerce with the town's Volunteer Fire Company and Snow Hill present its annual Independence Day celebration on Saturday, July 5, in Sturgis Park on River Street. There will be food, fun and activities for the whole family at the free event.

The day kicks off with the eighth annual Canoe Joust on the Pocomoke River. Registration starts at 5:30 a.m. and the joust begins at 11:30 a.m.

Food and beverage vendors will be on hand throughout the day with classic July 4 cuisine and beer. For children, there will be a moon bounce and other activities and Lollipop the Clown will provide entertainment.

At approximately 9:15 p.m., fireworks light up the sky from Byrd Park over the Pocomoke River. Guests should bring their own lawn chairs or blankets to Sturgis Park to enjoy the show. The Julia A Purnell Museum will sell neon glow sticks, necklaces and bracelets and the Snow Hill Rotary club will sell ice cream to benefit their scholarship fund.

The evening winds up with live music by the Time Police that lasts until midnight.

The rain date for the fireworks show is July 6. Call 410-632-2080 for more information.

- Ice Cream Social:
Pocomoke River State Park will celebrate America's independence with an ice cream social on Saturday, July 5 at 2 p.m. at the park at 3461 Worcester Highway. Call 410-632-2566 for more information.

- Downtown Concert and Fireworks:
A free concert on the beach at North Division Street in downtown Ocean City featuring Frankie & The Pack with Trish Curreri's Perfectly Patsy will now start at 8 p.m. on Saturday. A fireworks show will follow at 9:30 p.m. The event was originally scheduled for July 4, but it was moved due to projected inclement weather.

Ocean City's Mayor Rick Meehan called the July 4 celebration "a unique opportunity to watch fireworks sparkle over the ocean."

"The celebration will also be the first time we have used our brand new stage at Caroline Street, so bring your beach chair or blanket and claim a spot on the beach for a special and patriotic display," Meehan said.

Food will be available from Boardwalk vendors.

At Northside Park on 125th Street, U.S. Army Band Downrange kicks off a free concert, now set for Saturday, at 8 p.m. followed by a fireworks show at 9:30 p.m. Ten-year-old Baylee Morrison will lead the patriotic show with the National Anthem.

"You'll hear the 'oohs' and 'aahs' throughout the park as families watch the colorful displays light up the evening sky," Meehan said. "We encourage spectators to get there early to claim their spot to watch the fireworks," which visitors can catch from anywhere in the park.

• Hot Dog-Eating Contest:

Stop by Fish Tales Bar & Grill on 22nd Street Friday at 2 p.m. to see incredible eating feats as 20 competitors race in the seventh annual Independence Day “Top Dog” hot dog-eating contest.

Contestants will go head-to-head on-stage in the restaurant’s parking lot in a 10-minute event modeled after Nathan’s famous Fourth of July international contest. The “top dog” will take home a $1,000 prize and trophy and there will be cash prizes for second and third place.

Fish Tales and Coors Light are sponsoring the event and Dietz & Watson will supply the hot dogs. Hot dogs will be on sale during the contest.

• Parking and Boating:

Visitors should note that the Town of Ocean City is changing its parking in the inlet lot on July 5 now because of threatening weather on July 4, and will charge a $50 flat fee for all-day parking. Visitors can arrive as early as 5:30 a.m. and stay until midnight without paying the hourly rate. The fee is good for one entry only. Those arriving after 3 p.m. pay $30 for the one-entry fee.

Once the inlet lot is full, visitors should seek neighboring parking lots on Worcester Street, Somerset Street, Dorchester Street, North Division Street, Fourth Street and the West Ocean City Park & Ride.

Because parking is extremely limited at the downtown and uptown fireworks show locations, the town recommends that visitors take the bus. The West Ocean City Park & Ride on Route 50 is just west of the Route 50 Bridge and offers free parking and $3 ride-all-day shuttle service to downtown.

Normal ticketed parking operations will begin again at midnight on July 6. Area boaters should also note that on the evening of July 5, the span of the Route 50 Bridge will remain closed to marine traffic at the usually scheduled 10:25 p.m. and 10:55 p.m. opening times. The Route 50 Bridge will reopen for boaters at 11:25 p.m.

Main Street Berlin, once a virtual ghost town, is now the bustling center of "America's Coolest Small Town."

JOSH DAVIS/BAYSIDE GAZETTE

At one time Berlin virtual ghost town

road ceased to run and the drummers fell silent. Main Street became a virtual ghost town.

"There was a lot of empty storefronts when I was younger," Taylor said. "If you lived in Berlin you'd go to church and get groceries and go to the post office, and that was pretty much what you did. You had the big grocery store and the old Acme building ... there were a couple of clothing places like Style Guide, but most of the shopping was done elsewhere, in Salisbury."

"Families and farmers would come in on Friday nights, go to the bank and cash their check, and go to the grocery store and the drug store and the clothing store," said Patty Falck, owner of Ta-Da. "Everything was there, but it was there for locals – it wasn't geared towards tourists at all."

"There was a huge difference between Berlin and Ocean City," Falck continued. "People did not know about us. I remember the first time my husband talked about building in town, I said, 'there's no way in hell I'm going to live in Berlin.'"

At the same time, Ocean City was the epitome of opportunity.

"In the 1950's, 1960's and 1970's you could put money in Ocean City and you had to be one of the worst businessmen in the world to lose money," Mayor Gee Williams said.

By the late 1970's Berlin was facing what Williams called, "a near-death experience."

"There were more stores that were closed or boarded up on Main Street than were open," he said. "The town knew it was in trouble. The population actually dropped in Berlin between 1960 and 1970 while the rest of the country was exploding with population. It was unheard of."

Charles "Buddy" Jenkins, owner of Jolly Roger Amusement Parks, said the town had collapsed.

"It was down to about 1,200 or 1,500 people – today it's over 4,000," he said. "It collapsed because of the bypass around it, just like all the other areas collapsed."

"In the center of town you had an old, magnificent hotel in the Atlantic Hotel that, in its day, had been a wonderful place,” Jenkins continued. “It was ro- dent infested – there was a homeless man or two living in there, and whole town was down, down, down. People couldn’t find a way to make a living; shops and stores were vacant.”

“It ended up being nothing but dere- licts and drunks, basically, sleeping in the hallways,” Falck said. “And then a group of businessmen came along and said, ‘okay, we need to do something.’ It was the movers and shakers of Berlin. They put the money up for a full reno- vation. Ed Hammond, who passed away a few years ago, and his former wife, who were our local historians – they were the ones who were very particular about what went into the hotel and get- ting it back to what it looked like.”

Jenkins was part of the movement of ten local businessmen who joined to- gether to purchase and rehabilitate the town, beginning with the Atlantic Hotel.

“We poured in hundreds of thou- sands of dollars to restore it,” he said. “We restored it to its natural historic ability; we got a historical architect, we got a historical designation, and we had to maintain it the same way.”

Slowly, a sense of hope and purpose began to creep back into the town.

“Little by little you began to see people that were affected by that degree of optimism,” Jenkins said. “They had their share of failures and success – some of the shops that they originally thought might work had to change what they were selling – but little, by little, by little that grew and grew, and self-con- fidence came back, and more people said, ‘I want to come and try that.’”

The revival of the Atlantic Hotel led to a town-wide restoration movement. Historic buildings that had fallen into disrepair, including the Renaissance Building and the Taylor House, were given a new life.

“The Atlantic Hotel was the begin- ning of that,” Taylor said. “It seems like once things got going a lot of things took off. We started as a foundation in November of 1981, and at that time no- body had been in the house for a while. The town was thinking of tearing it down and bulldozing all the trees.

“In the 1970s it had been the style to tear things down, and then everything switched over,” Taylor continued. We were lucky to have a group of Berlin businessmen that were able work on that switch.”

At the same time, a different kind of business began popping up in Berlin. Terry Sexton’s Treasure Chest – once a 5 and 10 Cent Store – was the first of its kind. Then Debbie Frene turned the old IGA Grocery store into Victorian Charm, and Kate Patton resurrected the Globe Theater. Businesses that were the antithesis of the cookie-cutter chain stores that had once dominated Main Street laid the groundwork for dozens of shops and restaurants that would follow in their footsteps.

Falck – who had once balked at the idea of owning a business in Berlin – opened Ta-da inside her husband's construction office just off Main Street.

"I came in one day in November and said, 'I have good news and bad; the good news is I want to open up a business – the bad news is I want to do it here in your office, and the worst news is I want to do it in 30 days,'" Falck said. "And in 30 days we moved him to the back of the building and I took the two small front rooms and painted my heart out and opened a business.

"It was a struggle," Falck continued. "I was back there for 13 years and I was promoting myself like crazy because people don't get off the main street. But little by little we started seeing more things coming along."

A little more than decade after the restoration movement began, movie studios started taking notice of Berlin. Thousands of people lined the street for the chance to be an extra in "Runaway Bride" in the late 1990's. "Tuck Everlasting" followed a few years later.

Then, an outgoing mayor with a positive attitude and a part-time economic development director took the town to the next level.

"The biggest change was probably Gee Williams and Michael Day," Falck said. "I know when Michael first came into town there were two people that wanted to fire him before he was even given a chance. Thank goodness no one paid attention to that and they let him proceed. Quietly he did what he needed to do."

Day found grant money, convinced businesses to pool their resources to promote the town as a unit, and initiated a SWOT analysis with merchants, examining the town's strengths, weaknesses, opportunities and threats.

"The exercise was to get everybody on the same page, working in the same direction and start pulling things together," he said. "At that time the chamber and the town and the merchant's association was pretty much up in the air, but I think that's when we started working together and having a direction that we all wanted to go in."

"The events had started by then, but it was still a little fractured," Day continued. "We started having merchant meetings at the Globe every week until I wore them down and made them start following directions. They finally said, 'can we stop meeting every week?' and I said, 'if you start following the plan.'"

Berlin officially earned a Main Street designation in 2008. Day was hired full time the following year.

"When we were offered the designation of a Main Street it came with a financial package if the town government agreed to match it, and the town government did," Sexton said. "I feel like that was one of the first times in a long time that the town government was doing something for the businesses. That's what sparked a lot of interest from everybody, because we were going to have this new designation – the town was going to be working with us – and we would have some money to get some projects done that we had been wanting to do for years but didn't have the money for it."

"Terry said she would be the chair of the program, and she did a fabulous job of keeping everybody on track and doing it right," Day said.

Day helped secure facade grants through community legacy programs, bringing in money to further restore the downtown. Berlin was officially designated as an Arts and Entertainment District.

"It gave a little more pride for the property owners," Day said. "Some of them had a stake downtown but they weren't downtown – they were absentee owners. Those grants made them realize they wanted to fix their buildings up, and I think that's when the Berlin pride started happening."

Around that time, Williams called another merchant meeting, this time pitching a concept he called "community capitalism."

"No one had to sign a commitment; no one was forced to do anything, but by just talking about it roughly five years ago – what would happen if all the businesses started supporting each other?" Williams said. "I've lived here most of my life. For as long as I could

How town went from forgotten to a favorite remember, no matter what kind of business it was on Main Street, most people worried about how much the neighbor next door made. If they made $100 more or $20 more that day – or if they had three more customers. I said, ‘this is small thinking. Why don’t we try the idea that if you can’t help somebody and you don’t have what they’re looking for and you’ve done everything reasonable to help them, see if somebody else in town can help them, so when they leave town their needs have been met.’ Plus, I think they’ll probably remember you more than the person they bought from. And almost everybody agreed.”

Roughly 30 business owners were in attendance during the meeting.

“I said to them, ‘I hope you realize you have just added 30 – at least – people to your business. And guess what? It’s not costing you a damned dime,’” Williams said. “The concept became known as ‘everybody act as a concierge to everyone else.’ And believe me, they took it to heart.”

Several new events were created that both celebrated Berlin’s heritage and appealed to tourists who had become accustomed to ignoring the town during the drive to Ocean City.

“When we were researching one of our current exhibits we read 50 years of newspapers just to see what kinds of different things were going on, and one thing we found was the Harrisons used to have this big festival for the peaches, and that’s how we got the Peach Festival going again,” Taylor said. “We wanted to bring back one of those old festival events. They had thousands of people come and they had a big picnic on the lawn of the Harrison House, had horticultural society meetings, and talked about the peach crop. That’s what we started with.”

Most agree the town’s success was a long time coming.

“I don’t know if it was an epiphany moment or not, or whether it was the realization that a group working together was going to be much more successful than individual shops trying it on its own, especially when you’re in a small town like that,” Falck said.

“It’s been a long progression,” said Day. “It certainly wasn’t all me in the start. It was when the businessmen started Renaissance Plaza and then did the hotel restoration. But nine years ago is when I think it started picking up a lot of steam and the snowballs really started to grow.”

“It happened because the community came together instead of like a lot of places where everybody turned cut-throat and it was every man for himself,” Williams said. “Here it’s ‘what’s best for the family first.’ And if you agree with that you will succeed here, you will be happy here and you will have a lot to look forward to.”

Decades of work and cooperation went into making Berlin cool again, and many of the key players insist the town is still in it for the long haul.

“To this day we still have people that say, ‘I’ve been going to Ocean City for 20 years and I’ve never been to Berlin until, now,’ which is mind boggling,” Falck said. “It still does happen. We still have room to grow.”

“We have a lot of people who come who don’t know about the (‘Coolest Small Town’) designation but just heard about the town, and as somebody at one point said, that’s what made us the coolest,” said Sexton. “We were already cool because people were talking about us before we got the designation, but this is a wonderful tool to be able to go forward.

“Ninety-eight percent of the people that come to Berlin come back, because they like what we have to offer,” Sexton continued. “As long as we keep the momentum going and keep the Main Street what it is, I think people will continue to come.”

Cooperation – from the 10 businessmen who helped restore the Atlantic, to the dozens that helped put the town’s Main Street in the national spotlight – will more than likely be an essential component of future success.

“I’ve always thought, I can advertise my store and people will come for what I have – we can do our individual things – but if you want to advertise Berlin more people will come for the town than they will for one store,” Frene said.

County says no to Parke request for sewer charge cuts

Homeowners Assoc. must pay bills as usual

By Nancy Powell
Staff Writer/Ocean City Today

OCEAN PINES - The Parke at Ocean Pines must continue to pay its wastewater bills as usual.

The Worcester County Commissioners on Tuesday denied the written request of Kristi Clarke, general manager of The Parke, for a reduction in sewer charges because of water used for landscaping.

The Parke, the homeowners association for active adults age 55 and older, has approximately 400 acres of land. Most of the land is used for individual lots, but the association owns and maintains a lot of common area.

The central square, which Clarke stated is the focal point for the association, offers “beautiful landscaping and gazebo fit for any outdoor summer picnic and celebration. It is in these particular areas that the Association has invested in landscaping enhancements over the years,” she wrote.

Those areas are irrigated with water from the county water supply,

NANCY POWELL/BAYSIDE GAZETTE

Sprinklers water the grounds at the community square in The Parke late Tuesday afternoon.

so the association pays for the water. It also pays, Clarke wrote, “for the sewer in relation to water consumption, with the assumption that the water supplied to this facility is also entering into the sewer, thus needing treatment.”

For several months each year, however, most of the water is not entering the sewer systems, but is going into the ground. Because of that, Clarke wrote that the association should get a discount on the sewer portion of the water bills during months of irrigation.

A separate meter in the pool pump room measures the amount of water used through the irrigation lines around The Parke clubhouse, which is one of the largest areas being irrigated. The clubhouse also has sewer, but water used there is supplied through the main water meter.

Clarke wrote that it would be very simple to record the amount of water used for irrigation and so the association was making its request to ask for a “reduction of the sewer portion of our bills in accordance to the meter that is installed for just irrigation water supplied through the main water supply line.” The request, she wrote, was appropriate because of the type of usage and the metering of that usage.

During the county commissioners meeting, Public Works Director John Tustin said it is not the county’s policy to allow for irrigation meters. The county has an irrigation meter for landscaping at the Ocean Pines Community Gardens, but no sewer is there. The county policy is to issue waivers only if sanitary sewer facilities are unavailable and the water is used on a very limited basis.

In his memo to the county commissioners, Tustin wrote that the county has a policy against allowing irrigation meters because allowing them would encourage overuse of a limited resource, which over pumped could lead to saltwater intrusion into the water supply aquifer due to the proximity of the coastal waters and because excessive water use could result in the need to construct water supply facilities prematurely.

The commissioners voted unanimously to deny Clarke’s request.

Seriously low voter turnout storyline of June 24 primaries

Local officials feel early date will take time for citizens to get used to

By Josh Davis
Staff Writer

WORCESTER COUNTY— More than any single race for office, the central storyline coming out of June’s primary election was the historically low turnout.

The off-year primary pulled in just 20 percent of registered voters in Worcester County, down 10 percent from the similar primary held four years ago.

Maryland previously held primary elections in September, but the state moved up to the summer date to give candidates more time to campaign for the general election in November.

County Commissioner Bud Church blamed the low turnout on lack of knowledge and voter apathy.

“I was shocked,” he said. “I walked into Ocean City Elementary and there was no one there – there were people sitting around the table, but I was the only one voting. At one place in Snow Hill I heard just 15 people turned out to vote.

“I think the date change had a lot to do with it,” Church continued. “People weren’t geared to having the election this early. Usually you vote in September and then you race into the general. It definitely did have an effect. But I think by November they’ll be ready. People have so much to do in the summertime.”

Berlin Mayor Gee Williams was similarly miffed.

“When they first moved the primary to June I thought, ‘I don’t know about the rest of the state, but I don’t think that’s going to work down here,’” he said. “I think people recognize that late May to September is make-it-or-break-it time for everybody here, regardless of what business you’re in.

“I don’t blame people,” Williams continued. “When you’ve got to balance making a living and dealing with summer vacations for kids and all the activities they have, and family visits – everything is a higher priority than politics right now.”

Senator Jim Mathias has continued to campaign furiously, despite the low turnout – and the fact that he was unopposed in the primary.

“I appreciate every person that participated in early voting – every person that participated in Election Day – and I’m asking them to please show their dedication and enthusiasm,” he said. “It’s a process to have a voice in government, and I’m asking them to extend that to their family and to their neighbors to make certain that we get everybody possible out there on Election Day.

“The outcome of these elections is vital to our quality of life here and where we do and what the policies are in our state,” Mathias continued. “This was a departure from what had been in September, and particularly in a beach community and the like where we have a number of small businesses and agriculture – there were a number of contributing factors, I think. But change is always something that takes time to catch up with, and the nature of the season here given our economy here has certain pressures.”

GEE WILLIAMS
Berlin Mayor

Mathias expects the turnout to increase by the November general election.

“Our solid foundation remains energized,” he said. “We’ll have an early voting session before November the fourth, and I encourage people to early vote. If you have a job with time constraints or other issues – early vote. If it looks like you’re not going to be here, make sure you get out and absentee vote. And certainly make sure you get out on the traditional Election Day as well.”

Judy Davis, who won the Democratic nomination for the newly created Maryland Delegate District 38C seat, blamed the low turnout on the earlier voting date.

“For the actual primary day, I was surprised because we thought with the governor’s race there would be more interest. So we were all surprised that the election results were so weak.

“We’re moving forward to the November election, and we just have to make sure that people realize the sacrifices that others made in order to have that constitutional right to elect a public official,” Davis added.

Patti Jackson, Worcester County’s Board of Elections supervisor, theorized that the low turnout may have been due to the large number of races that were unopposed.

“I think there will be races and more opposition in November,” she said. “I think having more races and more of a choice will increase turnout.”

Polls open at 7 a.m. on Nov. 4 and remain open until 8 p.m. Early voting runs from Oct. 23-30 from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

For polling locations or more information call 410.632.1320 or visit www.co.worcester.md.us/elections.

Snow Hill dwelling gets new owners, who move in with ribbon cutting

SNOW HILL - Habitat for Humanity of Worcester County, Inc. welcomed its 17th partner family during a dedication ceremony on June 18 in Snow Hill. The new homeowner, Jessica Spence, thanked Habitat for Humanity of Worcester County, her pastor, and family who helped her to achieve her goal of homeownership.

"I just kept thinking... when, when, when, would this [homeownership] happen for me? Then it happened and I really felt like I was doing something. This is for me but, it's really for my kids," said Spence who is a Snow Hill native and works within the community as a home healthcare aide.

"My kids love their new house; they love their rooms. My girls love the kitchen because it's big enough they can spin around like ballerinas,"

Spence said. Members of the Habitat for Humanity of Worcester County board of directors, executive director, and Worcester County Commissioner Judy Boggs attended the dedication in support of the Spence family. Following a blessing of the home, Spence and Commissioner Boggs cut the ribbon that hung across the front porch entry, concluding the dedication of the Habitat home to the Spence family.

Spence purchased the home from Habitat with a zero percent interest loan, and the monthly mortgage payments will go toward future affiliate projects. As part of the Habitat requirement, Spence also completed a homeownership education course.

The Spence family, as with all Habitat families, is in the process of performing hundreds of hours of "sweat equity." These hours help to facilitate Habitat's needs in an economical way, foster a sense of volunteer activism, and ensure that families play a vital role in furthering Habitat's

“We are so pleased to welcome Ms. Spence and her children into the Habitat family. From the beginning of the process, Ms. Spence has been so enthusiastic,” said Andrea Bowland, Habitat for Humanity of Worcester County’s executive director. “Her determination and desire to become a homeowner to better the lives of her children is what Habitat’s mission is all about. ## New owners bring fury to Berlin area fitness business

Facelift includes new equipment, paint job

By Josh Davis
Staff Writer

BERLIN— Furious Fitness has undergone major changes in the last several months.

New owners, new equipment and several new coats of paint helped transform the gym into the type of low-pressure, high results center that should appeal to all ages and skill levels.

Husband and wife team Craig and Sharon Collins took over the gym, located in the shopping center at the corner of Route 50 and Old Ocean City Blvd., in April.

Since taking over, the new owners added 10 new pieces of cardio equipment, including two state-of-the-art adaptive motion trainer machines. The refurbished classrooms now host regular instruction in yoga and Pilates. Craig, who has extensive experience as a personal trainer, offers programs including managed weight loss.

“This place has been totally renovated,” Craig said. “Anybody who was in here before will definitely notice as soon as they walk in.”

The old gym had dark coats of paint and a leaky roof in the classroom area. The couple said they made a conscious choice to make Furious Fitness a warmer, more welcoming for the average client.

“We like to try to make people feel at home and comfortable,” Craig said. “We’ve lightened a lot of things up, from the paint to the atmosphere.”

“A lot of people, especially women, are intimidated walking into a gym for the first time,” said Sharon. “We definitely made an effort to make everybody feel welcome here.”

With 8,000 square feet, one of the biggest attractions of the gym is the amount of space clients have to work out.

“We’ve been in the other gyms locally – the equipment is much closer together there than it is here,” Sharon said. “Some of them have a lot of equipment and they offer a lot of things, but in a much smaller space. We have lot more elbow room.”

“We’ll also walk you through and help you set up a routine to you help you get started,” said Craig. “We’re not throwing people to the wolves – we want everybody to feel comfortable.”

Furious Fitness also has the advantage of being the only gym to serve the Berlin area.

“There are no clubs around until you get into West Ocean City,” Craig said. “We try to draw from Berlin and Ocean Pines, as well as Snow Hill and even the east side of Salisbury.”

Furious Fitness will launch a number of new programs and contests this fall, including a “Biggest Loser” weight loss competition.

“We’ve been steadily gaining new members since we took over,” Sharon said. “We want to get even more classes in here. We have lots of ideas, and we’re here to help – we’re here to get the customers on a routine that’s not going to hurt them and to get results.”

“A lot of people don’t even know the gym is here even though it’s been here for over 10 years,” Craig said. “There are also a lot of people who belonged here before that left because of the lack of cardio equipment or the lack of classes, and we hope to see a lot of them come back as soon as their contracts are up at their current centers.”

Furious Fitness is open from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday-Friday, and 8 a.m.

Berlin all ready to soak-in July 18 bathtub race event

BERLIN—The Berlin Chamber of Commerce announces the return of one of the town’s most highly anticipated events of the year, the Berlin Bathtub Races.

Scheduled for Friday, July 18, the Berlin Bathtub Races will occur during the town’s Second Friday Art Stroll. The parade of artfully crafted bathtubs begins at 6 p.m., with races set to start at 6:15 p.m.

Each year local businesses are tasked with turning ordinary “tubs” into rolling masterpieces for a friendly yet competitive race through the streets of downtown Berlin. Beyond having the unique opportunity to design a racing bathtub on wheels, businesses get the chance to go head-to-head against one another while advertising their business at the same time.

The winning team and business will take home the “Winner Takes All” trophy along with highly coveted year-long bragging rights. First place winners also receive a free banner ad on the Berlin Chamber of Commerce Web site, as well as recognition in e-mail blasts and press.

Tub and team entry fees are $75 for Chamber members and $100 for non-members. Previous winners include

The Berlin Chamber also announces the addition of track sponsors to this year’s race. Become a track sponsor and your business will be displayed along the track for the crowds and participants to see.

Sponsorships are still available for this year’s race. Fees for track sponsors with a sponsor supplied banner are $125 and banners cannot exceed 4-foot tall or 8-foot wide.

Fees for track sponsors with a Chamber supplied banner is $200 and the banner is yours to keep. Chamber supplied banners will be 2-foot tall and 4-foot wide. For details on how to become a track sponsor, contact the

Taylor Museum adds clock, knife box to collection

By Josh Davis
Staff Writer

BERLIN— Two new additions have been added to the already impressive collection at the Taylor House Museum.

An antique grandfather clock and a knife box were donated by the Ocean Pines-based Arcadia chapter of the Questers.

“They are a historic preservation organization, so they kind of adopted our museum, and each year they raise money to buy us historic things,” said museum curator Susan Taylor. “The year before we had the Andrew Jackson lithograph from 1832, and last year was the argon lamp. They’ve been really generous.”

No specific information accompanied the clock, which was purchased from a shop in Roanoke Rapids, N.C.

“It’s a red-flame mahogany tall case clock,” Taylor said. “It’s hand-painted, and it’s signed by Anderton Huddersfield. It does work – we have the weights underneath and the bell, so we’re just waiting to set it up to run. Hopefully sometime in July that’s going to happen.”

The knife box is Georgian mahogany circa 1800.

“It was purchased by one of the Quester ladies when she went to England,” Taylor said. “She bought it from Hampton Antiques in North Hampton in 2008.”

JOSH DAVIS/BAYSIDE GAZETTE

Calvin B. Taylor House Museum in Berlin recently added an antique knife box to its collection, thanks to a donation by the Questers.

Taylor said the box was used to store silverware.

“One of our docents told me the other day one silver knife would sell for enough money to run a household for a year,” she said. “So it was good to put all your silverware away.”

The museum has been working with consultants during the last several years to restore the house to 1832 conditions, when it was first built. The museum was named for its most famous owner, former Berlin Mayor Calvin B. Taylor, who lived in the house during the 1890s.

“They did the microscopic studies to get the paint colors correct, so all the colors that you’ll see is what they found,” Taylor said. “They found marbling on the baseboard, so we had that painted on. The carpet is hand-woven from a firm in Red Lion, Pennsylvania, and it’s based on an 1832 design that’s on display at Winterthur Museum in Delaware.”

The floor cloths were hand-painted by a local artist, and window treatments were created and hand-knotted by area volunteers.

“We’ve had a lot of support from the whole community,” Taylor said.

The museum’s longtime curator said attendance has been dramatically up since Budget Travel magazine dubbed the Berlin the “Coolest Small Town” in America.

“We had 11 people waiting on the porch when we opened on Wednesday, and it was busy the whole day,” Taylor said. “A lot of people come in and they’re amazed at how much we have in here. It’s not just a historic house – it’s a great place to start a tour of Berlin.”

The Chesapeake Brass Band will play a free concert on the lawn on July 13 at 6 p.m., and the museum will host the Peach Festival on August 2.

Visit the Taylor Museum on Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 1-4 p.m. through the end of October at 208 North Main Street. Donations of $5 per adult are suggested. Appointments are available.

No changes in user fees for most sanitary service areas

By Nancy Powell
Staff Writer/Ocean City Today
WORCESTER COUNTY - Seven of the county's 11 sanitary service areas have no changes in user fees in the Water and Wastewater Enterprise Fund adopted June 18.

The service areas with no changes in user fees are Ocean Pines, West Ocean City, Assateague Point, The Landings, Mystic Harbour, Light-house Sound and River Run.

Ratepayers in the Briddletown sanitary service area will have an increase from $55.50 to $61 per EDU (equivalent dwelling unit, the same approximately amount of water and sewer flow used for an average single-family residence) per quarter domestic flat rate and from $20 to $22 per quarter domestic pool fee and from $25 to $50 per quarter domestic irrigation fee.

Ratepayers in the Edgewater Acres sanitary service area will see an increase from $128 to $135 per EDU per quarter domestic base rate.

Ratepayers in the Newark sanitary service area will see an increase from $192 to $196 per EDU per quarter domestic base rate for water and sewer and from $228 to $240 per EDU per quarter commercial base rate for water and sewer.

Ratepayers in the Riddle Farm sanitary service area will see an increase from $150 to $160 per EDU per quarter domestic base rate for water and sewer and from $72 to $90 per quarter accessibility charge for unimproved lots that are not connected.

In addition to user fees, assessments will be levied in the Ocean Pines, Newark, South Point Village, Sunset Village, Snug Harbor, Oyster Harbor and Mystic Harbour service area or subservice areas to make debt payments related to the acquisition or construction of sanitary facilities.

The Water and Wastewater division is an enterprise fund, a self-supporting fund established to account for operations financed and operated similar to those of private business enterprises. The intent of such funds is that the cost of providing service to customers be recovered solely through user fees.

Worcester County provides water and/or sewer service to approximately 14,500 customers in 11 service areas. The department operates eight wastewater treatment plants and 18 water wells that pumped 565.49 million gallons of water during 2013.

For additional information, contact the Water and Wastewater Division at 410-632-1630, ext. 1217.

Berlin expected to annex land tract across from SDHS

By Josh Davis
Staff Writer

BERLIN— A significant growth in the town's commercial and residential capacity could begin construction by the end of the year.

A 120-acre piece of land at 9828 Seahawk Rd., across from Stephen Decatur High School, is expected to be annexed by the town and developed by Salisbury-based Rinnier Development Company.

"The first component of the development concept is market-rate apartments, similar to our Marley Manor project in Salisbury," said CEO Blair Rinnier. "It's something you'd see with a clubhouse and pool and landscaped grounds, so it's a very nice community for folks to live at. It's also a nice neighborhood for the folks around the community."

The larger, 86-acre back portion of the property, currently zoned for agriculture, would house the residential property. Developers will need the county to approve a zoning change for residential use. The 34-acre front end of the property, already zoned for commercial use, would house retail shops and restaurants.

A preliminary letter of annexation was drafted last year, and the town received a formal petition for annexation at the end of May. The town and county are both evaluating the petition.

"Since we've gotten the petition our department heads have been reviewing all the potential impacts to the town – both benefits and challenges – to make sure that we can support the development and that the plan makes sense based on the infrastructure that we would have or that they would provide," said Berlin Mayor Gee Williams.

The mayor does not foresee any snags in the process. "When we made that agreement we basically gave them the green light to make a significant investment," he said.

The first planned phase of construction would be a 144-unit apartment complex, with construction taking 10-12 months. As many as 900 apartments could be added to the total capacity during later phases of a 15-20 year build-out period.

The town had discussed developing the property for more than a decade.

"The key thing here is we're going to be working closely with the county so all the issues are resolved to everyone's satisfaction," Williams said. "I think a realistic timeline for a formal annexation agreement would come about at the earliest this summer and at the latest the early fall."

"We're pretty much ready to go as soon as we get through the annexation process," Rinnier said. "We're doing (similar) developments in Dover right now and in Salisbury, so our plan is already completed and would just have to be customized to the site. After the first phase we will take a break and see how well they lease up, and as the demand comes we'll build them out."

Rinnier believes the property will fill a major need in Berlin and the surrounding area.

"Worcester County is a little unique because it doesn't have any market-rate apartments," he said. "There's no apartment communities that I'm aware of that aren't subsidized by their tax credits or otherwise by their governments, so for the people that work at the retail stores – for the teachers, for the people that work at the hospital – they'll have a very nice place that they can lease in a community that has amenities like a pool and a clubhouse and a fitness center. I think that's really a need there."

Williams called the plan "a major step forward for the community."

"It's been a long time since anything of that scale was even proposed," he said. "But I think we're ready. We have very qualified department heads, we've got the sewer and the basic infrastructure in place – we've made those investments – so now we just have to work with the developers to come up with the best plan to have the maximum benefit to the community."

Berlin Little Leaguers win fourth straight division title

By Josh Davis
Staff Writer

BERLIN— The Little League all-stars breezed through their division for the fourth straight year, and could play for their fourth consecutive state title on Saturday.

Berlin's Intermediate (13 years old) team won the District 08 title by beating West Salisbury 14-3 in a slaughter-rule-shortened game last week.

The team got off to a 3-0 lead in the first inning thanks to a pair of singles by Hayden Snelsire and Tristan McDonough and a two-RBI triple by Wes Powell. A wild pitch would also score pinch runner Kevin Beck.

West Salisbury battled back in the 2nd inning with three runs, including a solo homer by Zach Fisher, but Berlin answered with five runs in the bottom of the inning. Matt Kinsey led off with a walk, then Zach Pletcher bunted for a single. Kevon Wharton hit an infield single to load the bases, and Kinsey scored on a wild pitch. Ryan Duncan hit a sacrifice to the right side of the infield to score another run, and a balk scored Wharton from third base. Powell singled for his third RBI of the game, and Billy Wheatley followed with a run-scoring single.

Berlin added six more runs in the bottom the third inning with hits by Wharton and Snelsire, and a sacrifice by Ryan Duncan. McDonough, Powell and Wheatley had three successive hits, Hayden Cosman added a sacrifice, and Jack Rosenberg and Beck added back-to-back singles to make it 14-3.

"These kids put in a lot of work," said coach Cameron McDonough. "They've made a commitment to each other and to themselves; they know what it takes to be successful and they're willing to put in the time and effort."

The regular season started in April, although McDonough said most of his players work on their game year-round.

"We're actually not allowed to practice as a team until two weeks prior to our first game, but since then we'll practice basically every day we're off," McDonough said. "We couldn't take anything for granted in our division, so we had to come out and play the best we could each week."

Seven other district champions await the Berlin team in the state finals. If the team makes it through again they will head to the Mid-Atlantic regionals.

"Then competition really starts getting fierce," McDonough said. "Every state in the Mid-Atlantic region is represented. And after regionals is the World Series up in Livermore, California."

Asked about their stiffest competition, McDonough simply said, "us."

"I think if we play our best baseball, there's no chance that we won't get it done," he said. "If we don't play for each other and play the way we know we're capable of playing, then of course anybody can be beaten. But I just think this team is so talented and they've worked so hard that I don't think that if we play our best baseball we'll be beaten in the states.

"In my mind, I think we're going to play it through all the way to the end and go to Livermore and still be playing August 4 when it's the international championship game," McDonough continued. "That's the confidence that I have and try to instill in the boys. There's nobody out there that we can't handle."

The team is currently trying to raise funds to make the trip to Washington. Mail donations to Berlin Little League Baseball, P.O. Box 514, Berlin, Md., 21811. For more information call 410-641-3782.

Blood Bank of Delmarva seeks immediate donors

MARYLAND—Blood Bank of Delmarva is issuing an urgent call for blood donors and requests those who are able to either schedule an appointment or walk in to one of its four donor centers.

“Due to a variety of factors, current blood inventories are not adequate. Our greatest need is for O Negative, the universal blood type,” said Michael Waite, director of marketing and community relations for Blood Bank of Delmarva. “We are also asking O Positive and A Positive donors to give us a call or walk in to one of our centers this week. Platelet donors are also urged to schedule an appointment this week. Platelets have a shelf life of just five days, so it is imperative that we maintain an adequate supply going into the long holiday weekend.”

Appointments are encouraged, but due to the current need, walk-ins are welcome. To schedule an appointment visit www.DelmarvaBlood.org or call 1 888 8-BLOOD-8. A free app is also available for iPhones and Androids.

Blood Bank of Delmarva is a non-profit, community service program that provides blood for 18 hospitals in Delaware and Maryland. More than 350 blood donors are needed every day to meet the needs of patients at those hospitals.

For more information about the Blood Bank or to schedule an appointment to give blood visit www.DelmarvaBlood.org or call 1 888 8-BLOOD-8.

Jesse's Paddle event to support suicide prevention mission

SNOW HILL - For the sixth year, several dozen paddlers will set out from the Pocomoke River Canoe Company to support the scholarship and suicide prevention missions of the Jesse Klump Memorial Fund.

Jesse's Paddle will take place on Saturday, July 19, with registration opening at 4 p.m. The event is at the Pocomoke River Canoe Company in Snow Hill.

"The Paddle is our most important annual fundraising event, and we have some fun, new features this year," said JKMF President Kim Klump. "Our new online team-building program enables our generous donors to easily create fundraising teams, personalize their own team pages, set their own goals, and reach out to all their friends through social media or e-mail."

Fundraisers can also go straight to the team building page at www.jesses-paddle.donorpages.com/JessesPaddle2014. Alternatively, visit www.choosetolivemaryland.org, click on Events and you can learn about Jesse's Paddle and then go straight to the Jesse's Paddle pledge site.

The top three fundraisers will receive special recognition and prizes. Past years' prizes have included a 10-guest pontoon boat cruise on the Pocomoke, and nights in Ocean City hotels and Snow Hill B&B inns.

Pledges are also accepted the day of the paddle.

Those who wish to support the JKMF with pledges but not use the on-line site can download a pledge form from www.jessespaddle.org or call 443-982-2716 to have one mailed to them.

The format of the paddle itself will also be new.

"There will still be canoes, kayaks and paddleboards available for free for those who do not have their own," said JKMF officer Ron Pilling. "This year we'll be paddling the river looking for clues to a Pocomoke-related quiz, and there will be prizes for those who match clues with sites on the river."

Boats must be reserved by calling the canoe shop at 410-632-3971.

This year marks the Jesse's Paddle debut of a new band, the popular blues duo Margo and Angel.

Snacks and beverages will be available at no charge, and there is a silent auction of locally made items and local services.

"Our goal for 2014 is to raise $17,000," Klump said. "Every penny goes to either our annual scholarship, which for the past four years has been valued at $12,000, or to the Worcester County Youth Suicide Awareness and Prevention Program."

For more information about the Jesse Klump Memorial Fund and Jesse's Paddle, call 443-982-2716, or visit www.jessespaddle.org and www.choosetolivemaryland.org.

It's going to take time to get used to June voting

So we think if anything, the June 24 scheduling of state primary elections is pretty much a work in progress.

Moving it from September was intended to give the winners from each primary more time to campaign for the November general election. The earlier schedule was also meant to give Americans serving the country or living overseas more time to get absentee ballots filled out and sent home.

Worcester County pretty much showed the same numbers as the state with 20 percent of its registered voters showing up at the polls.

County Commissioner Bud Church told us that when he walked into Ocean City Elementary School to cast his ballot, he was the only voter in the room with a group of precinct workers waiting for voters. He told us that at one Snow Hill precinct only had 15 voters showed up the entire day.

Church felt the date change had everything to do with the lower turnout. Indeed, some 30 percent of the county's voters turned out for the previous primary, which was held in September.

Berlin Maryland Gee Williams said he had a feeling that the date change wouldn't work in our area because "May to September is make-it-or-break-it time for everybody here."

Senator Jim Mathias, who ran unopposed in the primary, summed the issue up by saying that "change is something that takes time to catch up with, and the nature of the season here given our economy here has certain pressures."

We agree that the earlier voting time will have some growing pains. We hope that the next June primary produces higher numbers statewide. But if it doesn't, then we would urge the General Assembly to at least debate whether the date change was indeed a good change.

Waiting one more day for fireworks

When weather reports are at times hyped up

By Phil Jacobs
Editor

"A meteorological bomb." That's what the guy on the Weather Channel called a winter storm that was going to hit Maryland during the early part of the new millennium.

It was supposed to start on an early Saturday morning. That Friday afternoon, my wife Lisa and I did the usual Maryland thing. We purchased food, firewood, flashlight batteries and the whole deal expecting the worst. Remember video stores? Our local video store was almost cleaned out by people like us who thought they'd be stuck at home.

Saturday morning at 6. Lisa wakes up expecting to see us living in a winter wonderland.

Nothing.
Not a flake of snow to be found.

We still had seven videos to watch. The "meteorological bomb?" Well, it bombed. And the TV weather guys went into "well we said it could possibly miss the state" mode.

Right.
Already we know that a tropical storm named Arthur is going to push back our Friday, July 4, Fireworks festivities back a night to Saturday

Jessica Waters, Ocean City's Communications Manager, confirmed that in the resort's State Fire Marshal Office Permit and in the USCG Permit, "we have Saturday July 5th as a rain date. Of course that could be rained out as well. If we move to the rain date, we lost the bands/entertainment and it would be just fireworks."

Susan Jones, Executive Director of Ocean City's Hotel-Motel-Restaurant Association, said that the "mere mention of bad weather makes people freak out."

She added that resort hotels and motels aren't sold out for the July 4th weekend. And she said that the media has a great deal to do with it.

"We've had phone calls and cancellations," she said. "It's sad that the mere mention of a storm creates panic among visitors. For us to have vacancies with July 4th coming is not good."

Mention the weather to Joe Theobald on Tuesday afternoon, and he's not ready to throw in the towel quite yet. Theobald is the Town of Ocean City's Emergency Services Director.

"It's a little early for people to get their feathers up in the air," he said. "It's a tropical depression. Hopefully it can turn and go out to sea. Do I think we're going to get brushed from something? Yes.

"We want the community and the holiday to be vibrant," he continued. "I would hate to postpone the fireworks from Friday to Saturday. If need be, you do it."

Still, Theobald, who's been through his share of storms and false alarms is still hoping that "this will turn out to sea and come Saturday and Sunday, we'll have descent weather."

"I'm not hyped up about this one."

Berlin Mayor Gee Williams is a bit hyped up. It has nothing to do with the weather; it's instead how it's being presented on the major networks and websites.

"Every time a handful of clouds get together, the weather commentators seem almost glad that a storm could happen," he said. The Mayor said that that the hype he sees on certain commercial weather stations and websites "borders on being a prepared. It's a roll of the dice moment, leaving something in the hands of Mother Nature."

Waters said that a recent meeting Mayor Rick Meehan kiddingly told Theobald "all of this was up to him, make the storm go away." But Waters has another barometer she uses to measure the severity of a storm. If Weather Channel personality Jim Cantore is in town, she's worried.

"We've had phone calls and cancellations. It's sad that the mere mention of a storm creates panic among visitors. For us to have vacancies with July 4th coming is not good."

criminal act."

Locally, he said the weather casters are much more fair, because they know our area.

The national meteorological scenario, he called "the 21st century's version of yellow journalism."

"There's no penalty for this," he added. "They exaggerate, they cause pure fear. Their words impact good, hard working people, while they profit from the storm coverage."

No problem guessing where Berlin's mayor stands.

Getting back to Jessica Waters. She said that storms like Arthur can "complicate things." She recollects that in the past 15 years only once has the city had to cancel fireworks due to weather.

But even by postponing for one night to Saturday, she said, "it changes our operations significantly as well as the manpower we have

"If Cantore's not in Ocean City, we're in good shape. "He hasn't been here for a few years."

She summed it up pretty well by saying in a Tuesday interview, "it's wait and see. It's quite a task to change the operations of two shows on two separate ends of town. But it's not impossible."

Let's hope that Arthur stays away or makes as little impact as possible. And hopefully we won't see Bertha, the next name on the World Meteorological Organization's list, for a long time if ever.

The names that follow: Cristobal, Dolly, Edouard, Fay, Gonzalo, Hanna, Isaias, Josephine, Kyle, Laura, Marco, Nana, Omar, Paulette, Rene, Sally, Teddy, Vicky and Wilfred.

Nana? A hurricane? You've got to be kidding me. My wife is Nana to our grandchildren.

Thank you DeNovo's Trattoria!

Editor,

Primary Day is over and we want to congratulate all the candidates for taking part in one of the most significant privileges and responsibilities of citizenship in this country. The day is long. Not only for the candidates who seek approval from their fellow citizens but for the election judges who work the polls at each of the voting locations in Worcester County. Their day runs from 6:00am to 9:00pm and, under the Board of Elections rules, workers may not leave the building for the entire period. While the workers enjoy the opportunity to support this civic responsibility to vote, there is no question that it can be an exhausting day.

The workers of Polling Station 5-1 (Ocean Pines Country Club) want to heartily thank De Novo's Trattoria for, once again, showing its support to the 19 workers by providing lunch sandwiches at no cost. The Country Club is a pleasant venue for voting but there is no refrigeration to keep food for lunch or dinner. Therefore, it was a very pleasant surprise to receive the news that De Novo's would have two trays of sandwiches ready for the lunch break. This is not the first time that De Novo's has stepped up to support workers on Election Day and we want them to know how much we appreciate it. It's great to have such a generous business within our community.

Four GOP commissioner candidates await tally

By Josh Davis
Staff Writer

WORCESTER COUNTY— Four Republican candidates for Worcester County Commissioner are experiencing the longest election night ever.

Costa Ventosa owner and wine-maker Kathryn Danko-Lord and Worcester County Business Contractors Association President Ted Elder are vying for the District 4 nomination, while Chip Bertino, publisher of the Courier newspaper, and Ocean Pines businessman Grant Helvey are competing for the District 5 nomination.

Following the June 24 primary, Elder led Danko-Lord by three votes. Two days later, after the first round of absentee ballots were counted, the two candidates were tied at 210 votes each. Beach to Bay Times publisher Molly Hilligoss finished third with 111 votes as of June 24.

“The outcome reminded me of ‘Mr. Toad’s Wild Ride,’” Danko-Lord said. “As a child, I loved the twisty, turny, up and down of the ride – but I loved it more when it was done. I wouldn’t say it’s stressful, but it’s definitely a little frustrating.

Elder said it’s always difficult to predict the outcome of a local election.

“Going into the last week or so, I knew that my opponents were very capable campaigners and they were doing a wonderful job doing it,” he said. “It lit a fire under me to go do what I needed to do. That last day – people that don’t run for office don’t know how brutal that last day can be. It drains the candidate and all the candidate’s workers. I was ready to go to sleep, rest up and see what happens.”

Elder said he would back Danko-Lord if she wins the nomination.

“The Republican party has some

“I had made the statement even before decided to run that I would back whoever wins this, and I still hold to that. If she wins I will help her all I can.”

great candidates on the slate this election,” he said. “I had made the statement even before decided to run that I would back whoever wins this, and I still hold to that. If she wins I will help her all I can.”

Bertino led Helvey 322 votes to 314 after the primary. Former Ocean Pines Association Director Ray Unger finished third with 71 votes.

No votes for District 5 were counted during the first round of absentee ballots. As many as 84 additional ballots could be counted during the second round of absentee and provisional tallying on July 2, and a third and final round will be counted on July 7.

“It’s a unique experience to be honest with you,” Bertino said. “Whatever happens happens, but I feel we’re in a pretty good position.”

Bertino expects to have a clearer picture after July 2.

“I just have to go about my business until then,” he said. “That’s the only thing I can do. There’s nobody I can impact – the votes have already been cast, and it’s going to be what it’s going to be.”

Helvey said he hasn’t spoken with Bertino.

“It’s out of no disrespect,” he said. “The election is not over, and I certainly will at the appropriate time.”

The candidate called the ongoing count “frustrating.”

“It’s not only frustrating for me, but it’s frustrating for all of those supporting me, as I’m sure it is for Mr. Bertino,” he said. “I did receive a call from Ray Unger, and he has wished me well and he asked if there was anything he could do to help me going forward.

“Among the three of us I think we all have an appropriate, cordial relationship, and we’re just awaiting the outcome,” Helvey continued. “Hopefully I still can become the candidate.”

BAYSIDE GAZETTE

Try fish marinated in pickled vegetables

I slowly brush the sand off of my feet; I am in no hurry to go back inside. I grab my ukulele and play a few standards in our driveway, wishing - nay dreaming of even selling my soul to the devil - that I had a voice that resembled anything better than that of Alfalfa Switzer. The strings will have to do.

By Paul Suplee, CEC PCIII

I collect my thoughts. It would appear that the girls ate bowls of chocolate pudding after an evening at the beach. They are invigorated by the sugar and the genius of their creation, it would seem. Their voices carry out into the street, their enthusiasm in trying to out-scare each other not to be outdone by the incessant barking of our eighty-pound dog.

Our weekend was full of family; 32 of us came together to have a paddle-out for our mother on Saturday. She loved the ocean and wanted us to remember her on Assateague, so we had a wonderful day at the beach followed by a traditional surfer's ceremony wishing aloha to the old gal. With any luck, we will do the same thing in Hawai'i, another of my mother's favorite places.

On Sunday, a few of us cooked a charity dinner for the Children's House. Hosted by Denny and Tina Contic, it was another great addition in the weekend, not only because we had such a great time and the guests loved our kids, but because we get to raise money for the House.

But we were tired; we slept this morning. I never sleep past seven, but my sluggish eyes nudged their way open at nine. I was shocked at the time; but not too shocked to drink my three cups of coffee.

Back to this evening's deviltries, I stayed up to reminisce with my youngest daughter on what exactly happened in their moment of pudding-induced insanity. Apparently, not having the milk needed to create the Instant Jello Pudding they desired to eat (yes, I am a chef but never forget that the cobbler's children have no shoes), they opted for Cool Whip (not my purchase) and 'went for it'.

The result was a 'gritty, chocolate-flavored-toothpaste-textured-something-or-other-resembling cat food' according to my youngest daughter. Yet, when I entered the kitchen after stalling as long as I could, they had finished it all. The only thing remaining were the bowls and the empty whipped topping container. I'm just glad that they didn't eat those as well. Ah, the halcyon days of youth; the dog days of summer. After a weekend such as this past one, I myself remember blowing off steam with my siblings by chasing and being chased; and by driving our parents crazy.

Gabbie did share that "you only had to get past the texture. Once you get past the gag reflex the chocolate flavor made it all worthwhile." While I admire the 'go for it' spirit of my kids in the kitchen, I decided that I will not be adding this to my private dinner repertoire. Yes, it is important to have unique dishes in one's arsenal, but I'll leave anything with the texture of cat food to the young.

At Denny and Tina's dinner, I served a simple and delicious hors d'oeuvres that I like to offer up to people during the summer due to its sweet and savory flavor profile. One of the classic South American dishes, it is perfect to accompany other hors d'oeuvres; a great way to start a meal. Traditionally made with a firm white fish, I made escabeche with fresh tuna, and it worked splendidly.

Lightly fried fish marinated in pickled vegetables comprise the dish, and this is an easy one for you to try this week. Typically served at room temperature, it is filling but delightfully refreshing. The simple pickling gives a kick to the richly fried fish.

And now that my Tasmanian devils have settled down, it is time to take a deep breath. I think I'll grab the guitar now and go on the back deck and try to sing. I just hope that I don't scare the neighbors.

Escabeche
Makes 20 pieces
2 lb. fresh tuna steak, 1" thick
AP flour
Salt and pepper, to taste
Pickled vegetables (recipe follows)
Cut tuna into 1-inch cubes.

On a clean plate, mix 1 cup of flour with salt and pepper to taste.

Heat some oil in a fry pan and work with no more than 8 pieces at a time.

Coat tops and bottoms of the tuna bits and place them in small batches in the hot oil.

Fry the top for about 45 seconds and turn over and repeat on other side.

Place in pickled vegetables until ready to serve.

Serve at room temperature but serve within an hour for safety sake. I like to fry them up and send them out within 10 minutes.

Pickled Vegetables

Makes about 2 cups
2 ea. bell peppers
1/2 ea. medium yellow onion
1/2 cup good white wine vinegar
1/2 ea. carrot
salt and pepper to taste
1/4 c. sugar, or as desired

Cut vegetables into julienne; approximately 1/8"x1/8"x2".

Place in small saucepan and add vinegar and sugar.

Cook until vegetables turn tender and pull from heat.

Season to taste.

Let it come to room temperature and use within 3 hours or refrigerate.

Friends of OP Library get ready for annual book sale

Funds used to help with purchases of new electronic equipment

OCEAN PINES—The Friends of the Ocean Pines Library will hold its annual book sale on Friday, July 25, 6-9 p.m., Saturday, July 26, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Monday, July 28, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

On Monday, prices will be marked down to half price all day.

The library is located at 11107 Cathell Road, next to the Ocean Pines Post Office and across from the Sports Core pool.

The Friday evening sale is limited to members of the FOPL, but people may join or renew memberships at the door and proceed to the sale. Membership is $5 for individuals or $10 for a couple or family.

This sale is the single biggest source of funds for the Friends. This group is continually seeking ways to upgrade services and equipment at the Ocean Pines Library. This year it supported purchases of new electronic equipment to keep its checkout, inventory, and computer facilities current.

The Friends also replaced the benches in the ornamental garden and provide for seasonal cleanup. The Children's and Adults' Summer Reading Programs and the McGuffey Reader Program also benefited from donations from the FOPL.

Book donations for the sale, may be dropped off on Friday, July 11. Donations of books are welcomed at any time, but gifts received after that date cannot be sorted in time to put out for this year's sale.

Also, volunteering options are available. Active, strong-armed people are needed on the morning of Thursday, July 24, to carry boxes of books from storage and set up the sales tables, and also in the afternoon of Monday, July 28, to box unsold books and return the room to normal. Other tasks include helping shoppers check out purchases and keeping the tables neat and well supplied with books. To volunteer or for more information, contact Jean Fry at 410-208-4269.
